Modest beginnings were gradually swelled to greater things when George M. Church and Dean Mathey, the Princeton pair, recovered themselves yesterday and defeated William J. Clothier and G. Colket Caner in the second day of the turf lawn tennis courts at the Country Club of Westchester.

a fatal mistake. Church and Mathey were growing stronger and more certain at each stroke. They scored a pass every time Clothier left the court open and by forcing Caner into the rallies pulled out the third set without the loss of a game.

Le Roy and Washburn combined prettily against Touchard and Burden. The latter displayed the strength of his ground strokes in a way that was unusually convincing, and with better support from Touchard the pair might easily have tucked away a victory.

In the second set Burden took long chances and made good. From a position slightly inside the base line he worked his forehand and backhand drives straight through the centre of the opposite court for passes. Le Roy and Washburn failed to check the play, Burden practically carrying the second set In the last set Le Roy and Washburn plunged into the rallies with redoubled vigor, winning the set and match with the loss of only two games. The standing of the players follow:
